2. Obligations of the Receiving Party

The Receiving Party shall use Confidential Information only for the Purpose, shall not disclose it to any third party without prior written consent, and shall protect it with at least the same care it uses for its own confidential information, and in no case less than reasonable care. Access shall be limited to employees and advisers who need to know it and are bound by written duties of confidentiality at least as strict as those in this Agreement.

3. Exclusions

These obligations do not apply to information that: (a) is or becomes public through no fault of the Receiving Party; (b) was known to the Receiving Party before disclosure; (c) is independently developed without use of Confidential Information; or (d) must be disclosed by law or court order, provided the Receiving Party gives prompt written notice, where lawful, so the Disclosing Party may seek a protective order.

5. Return of Materials

Within 15 days of a written request or of termination, the Receiving Party shall return or destroy all Confidential Information and confirm in writing that it has done so.

6. Remedies

A breach of this Agreement may cause irreparable harm. In addition to any other remedy, the Disclosing Party may seek an injunction. The parties agree that liquidated damages of INR 10,00,000 (Rupees Ten Lakh) are a genuine pre-estimate of loss for each proven unauthorised disclosure.

7. Governing Law and Disputes

This Agreement is governed by the laws of India. Any dispute shall be referred to arbitration by a sole arbitrator under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. The seat of arbitration shall be Bengaluru, and the courts at Bengaluru shall have exclusive jurisdiction.
